Gasoline launches are used effectively in the administration of the Alaska and Florida national forests, but in only one case has transportation by water been found of advantage in the Ogden district.

JUVENILE JUDGE IS KEPT IN THREE COUNTIES

Arios Burnham, a youth from West Bountiful, was committed to the State Industrial school by Judge V. C. Gunnell, at the last session of the juvenile court. The case of young Burnham was first brought to the attention of Judge Gunnell by John Walsh, the probation officer of Davis county. Mr. Walsh said that the parents wanted the boy sent to the reform school because of his being incorrigible. The judge decided to investigate the case thoroughly before passing on the matter and went to Bountiful for the purpose. While there he found that in addition to being incorrigible, the boy was a cigarette fiend. The judge then decided to commit him to the State School for the purpose, primarily, to break up the cigarette habit. Judge Gunnell expects to make another trip to pass upon a number of cases of truancy and general mischievousness among the boys in Bountiful that were brought to his attention while he was investigating the Burnham case. In addition to his work in Weber and Davis counties, Judge Gunnell has jurisdiction over Morgan county and left for Morgan this morning to hold a session of the juvenile court. He was accompanied by Acting Clerk R. H. Baumauk. One of the cases to be considered is that of two boys who were tried a few weeks ago and placed on probation. They have since broken the terms of their parole and were again reported by the probation officer. The judge will also hear the case of a young girl who is charged with stealing jewelry and other personal effects from a family by whom she was employed.

"The Chinese Death Thorn," a two-reel drama of the underworld, and a splendid program, including the first appearance of Col. "He's A Liar," at the Oracle today and Wednesday. CARD OF THANKS We desire to express the thanks and gratitude of our hearts to all those who aided and sympathized with us in the late illness and death of our greatly beloved husband, father and grandfather. Especially do we wish to extend our thanks to Rev. Simpkin, Gus Sanders and the members of the various organizations to which he belonged, also to those kind friends who sent the beautiful floral offerings. (Signed) MRS. H. C. YULETIDE GOODWILL ABOARD New York, Dec. 16.—The Rev. James Yule, Robert Tide and Miss Helen Goodwill were names on the passenger list of the Anchor line steamer California, just in from Glasgow. Captain Blakie thought the combination a good Christmas omen and said that in addition to the "Yuletide Goodwill" there was an abundance of good cheer in the hold of the vessel where there were several thousand cases labelled "Scotch whiskey."

HELL EXPLAINED BY A SPEAKER

Owing to lack of space we were compelled to omit from yesterday's issue any reference to the lecture on "Who Created Hell," by W. Horace Bundy, of San Francisco, at the Oracle theatre, Sunday afternoon. An audience of about 250 listened with rapt attention to the eloquent speaker, and went away with entirely new thoughts on the subject. Mr. Bundy has spent several years in Bible study work, both in this country and the Orient, and related many interesting experiences as to the beliefs of other peoples. The object of this address, as stated in the announcement—as indeed with all lectures under the auspices of the International Bible Students association—was to impress upon his hearers the necessity of getting back to the Bible and its teaching, and away from man-made creeds and the errors of the dark ages. Mr. Bundy astonished his audience by declaring that the hell of the Bible is the grave or condition of death and that there is not even a suggestion from Genesis to revelation of any intent on the Almighty's part to torture any of His creatures in the future. They are getting enough of that now. Apparently every statement made was thoroughly based on Scripture and many notes of the address were made by those in attendance.

DANISH BROTHERHOOD DANCE, Eagle's Hall, Friday evening December 19. Admission 50c couple. Extra lady 25c. Wagons and Velocipedes—All kinds at Lowe's. TRIBUTE PAID TO H. C. WARDLEIGH

The following tribute is paid to the late H. C. Wardleigh by the Park City Record in a recent issue: "In the passing of H. C. Wardleigh, whose death occurred at his home in Ogden early last Tuesday morning, a good man, loyal citizen and true friend goes to his final reward. He was known throughout the state because of his consistent, earnest work in fraternalism, and was honored and loved by many hundreds of his co-workers in the organizations to which he belonged, because of his always genial manner, his constant efforts for the uplift of humanity, his pleasing personality and wise counsel. It is only a little over two weeks ago since he visited Park City on an official visit with the grand chancellor to the local lodge, Knights of Pythias. He then appeared in better health usual and the happy evening spent with him, and the pleasure derived by the deceased because of his visit, will long be remembered by those who participated in the fraternal function. In the Odd Fellows, Mr. Wardleigh was an honored past grand master and for over twenty-one years he faithfully served the Knights of Pythias as grand keeper of records and seal. He lived out his three-score and ten, and his long life was filled with real service and good deeds, and with the closing of his life's work it can be truthfully said: 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.'"

SCHOOF SPEAKS ON MEXICAN WAR Sergeant Major Gustave Schoof of the Alberta Mounted Rangers, addressed a fair sized crowd at the Methodist church last night. His talk dealt mainly with the Mexican problem and he spoke from personal experience in the southern republic, but he also mentioned briefly a few incidents connected with his army life in South Africa. With the help of a large collection of trophies, consisting of bolos, poisoned arrows, spears and animal skins, he illustrated the manner of warfare among the natives in an intensely interesting manner. The Mexican situation was discussed at length, and from many different phases by the speaker and he praised President Woodrow Wilson highly for the stand he had taken in regard to Mexican affairs. He said that it was best to let the Mexicans battle their own troubles and for Americans to keep out. He gave a detailed exposition of a number of crimes committed by General Huerta and his followers and of Huerta's treacherous treatment of Madero, who had been his friend. Of the Mexican leader, Carranza, he spoke in terms of highest praise. Major Schoof expects to leave soon for Mexico and will study the war problems in the camp of Carranza.

More than 50 townships, with an aggregate area of 1,268,980 acres, are included in the Idaho forest. On account of the rough topography, long distance haul from a railroad and large amounts of timber privately owned, there has been no demand for any of the timber in this vast forest area. However, all the forest territory between Little Salmon river and the South Fork is excellent sheep range. There are hundreds of water power sites on the forest, not one of which has as yet been utilized. Every summer thousands of sheep from the vicinity of Boise, Payette, Weiser and Huntington, Oregon, are trailed from 75 to 100 miles to secure the benefit of the Idaho forest range for periods of only 60 to 90 days, the duration of the short summer season. East of the South Fork of Salmon river, to the mouth of Middle Fork, is a vast, unoccupied domain known as the Chamberlain basin. Ten thousand cattle and horses can thrive there from six to nine months during the year, but owing to the lack of transportation facilities this range always has been unoccupied. Naturally, in a country as large as the Idaho forest, there is more or less agricultural land, in small tracts in creek bottoms and throughout the timber. During the past season it is expected that at least double this number of homesteads will be taken up within the Idaho forest. Mr. Graff reports that before July 1, 1914, sixty miles of new telephone line from McCall, Idaho to the well known camp of Warren will have been completed, and next year it is planned to extend this line on into the Chamberlain basin, heretofore an unexplored wilderness. The forest service telephone lines, in addition to serving their primary purpose as a means of summoning help when the country is threatened by fire, are at all times available for the lonely settler, miner, prospector or traveler in distress. Each year new roads are being built or old roads are being made passable. Bridges are constructed over the treacherous streams which could formerly be forded only with the risk of either horse or rider losing his life. As a result of the continued building of roads, bridges and telephone lines, which are of immediate and very appreciable benefit to the settlers and miners, there is a growing friendliness toward the forest service, and the encouragement of their strong support aids wonderfully in the administration of the forest.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Bearish figures in the government crop report made the wheat market today take a downturn. The opening was 14@3 1/2 to 1 1/2c down, but the ensuing rally overcame a good share of the loss. Signs of continued heavy receipts acted as an offset for the bullish influence of the government report as to corn. Prices at the outset varied from 1-4@3-8c lower to 1-8c advance and later hardened some, but again fell back. Although oats sagged with other grain, buying on the part of shorts gave the market subsequent lift. First sales of provisions were unchanged to 2 1/2@5c down, but of ferings were light. Assertions by a crop expert that the government had over-estimated the wheat yield at least 33,000,000 bushels tended to check the bears. Closing prices were firm, 1-8 to 3-8c net decline. Strength developed later in corn owing to increased call from traders. The close was firm at 1-4@3-8c above last night.
